David Youngs CD Review

David Youngs

TRANSCIENCE

Self-released

* 1/2

Cambridge-based David has focused his attention on developing a particular type of picking. This has certainly reaped dividends because his playing ability is akin to Derrin Nauendorf; if David's gigs are anything like the aforementioned New Zealand artist, they will be remarkable. Although this is his debut album, David performs as though he has been proudly releasing records in a steady stream. Out of the nine tunes featured, "Sea Shapes" impresses the most. With a crowd-pleasing sound, this song conjures up all types of imagery and it would be criminal if it didn't appear in a leading independent film. A follow up to this delightful album must materialise soon.
